

CHARACTER HISTORY

LIN EDEN TRIX

Lin is a 27 y.o. Asian woman with an aspiration for creativity. She may have a doctorate in environmental science and wear a lab coat most of the time in her work, but her true passion is designing clothes. Many of the clothing she has designed have a lot to do with her expertise in environmental science such as her beaver dam earrings and her red panda high heels. She's a bit awkward in social situations, but that's not her fault, she's an only child to two bureaucrats. Her mom is in cyber security and her father's in accounting. She's awkward and clunky in speech except when it's about something she's passionate in. Conservation is always a topic that comes up with her. She's a vegan so she cares deeply about animals. She even cries over spilled milk. It's such a waste to see it spill even if she wasn't going to drink it, a cow had to make that and now it's all over. One of her favorite topics to discuss is farming human meat and if there's a way to start that she'll be the one to discover it. She's made herself a pawn for the betterment of human and animal life. Maybe that's why she hasn't had a date in 27 years. Maybe it's because she looks like a nerd with her glasses and actually is a nerd in her grades. One nerdy tidbit about her is that she peels avocados rather than cutting them in half. She says cutting them in half is too trendy and she "doesn't wanna be a part of the system." That's also why she prefers writing rather than electronic, she owns several typewriters on which she writes all of her important documents. Her favorite color is mint green and that is an element in every bit of her clothes and home. Her house is extravagantly decorated with chicken paraphernalia. She can't bring herself to actually own the birds she loves so much, because she knows it would break her heart if they died. She owns a black cat named Jeremy which she doesn't really own. They live together and she leaves him food, but that's their only interaction except for huddling together during thunderstorms. Meet Lin Eden Trix!! OLIVE DABROAD - Limbo

REDD MOIMER

Redd Moimer was born in 2003 in a small suburban town in south Georgia. His parents worked simple jobs and he lived middle class for most of his life. When he was 17 he eloped in secrecy with his best friend. From there he immediately got a job in order to live with his new wife, but within a year of the relationship they divorced because they both were way too young. But that's nothing new for Redd. He's hectic and sporadic, he's got books smarts more than common sense. He's now 25 in the year 2028 and he's had 9 ex-wives. Each of them was a friend of his in high school that he later married. What he lacks in intelligence he makes up for tenfold in charisma. In most of his relationships, it ended with them still remaining friends. It was only his 9th where they couldn't remain friends after. But he doesn't let that get him down. He's extremely optimistic to a stubborn degree. If he sees a problem he can't see why it can't be fixed. He's very childlike in this way, always holding on to hope. That isn't the only way that he's childlike, because he was never given an opportunity to grow up. He rushed into his first marriage and then into another after that with another one of his friends. And then another. And then the next wife he had was rich, and rich people have a tendency not to grow up and he followed suit. He hired people to do all the hard things for him, but he treated them with respect and never took them for granted. He understood the struggle of people with simple jobs having grown up the way he did. His fourth wife bought him the mansion he lives in today and got him a job in her father's business. Now Redd had a good job, a good house, and good life and it was the year 2023. This wouldn't last forever, Redd did what he does best and divorced. It was around this time that he bought himself a raccoon plush and he named it Redd Jr. he had clothes made for it so that the doll could wear the same things that he wore. I find this to be very childish and immature of him. He thinks it is too sometimes. Sometimes he thinks he's still a child and sometimes he thinks he's too old to act like this. He hasn't spoken to his parents in years, not since he left the house on January 7, 2020. He packed a bag that night and went out the back window. When he got married he changed his last name, but maybe they recognize him as Redd. He's gone through so many last names. Upon his first divorce, he changed his surname to Moimer. He thought it sounded cool as he sat in that office signing papers. His view on marriage is controversial or at least he sees it that way. He thinks paper holds no value how can it classify love? He still loves many of his ex-wives and thinks that putting it down on paper is kind of silly. Of course, he isn't afraid to do silly things that's why he's done it 9 times and plans to do it even more. Whenever he "falls in love" he'll marry and whenever he falls out of it he'll divorce. It usually does take a year for two people sharing a home, last name, and toothpaste to realize this isn't working. After he divorced his 4th ex-wife he threw a big party on his birthday to not as much celebrate but to make sure there were no hard feelings between the two of them. He continues that tradition of holding a party in honor of his ex-wives on his birthday. Redd Moimer is a funny character. He's loved and lost. He's lived his life the way he wanted to love it not listening to any guidance from anyone else. Reason matters little to him when emotions and feelings are involved. Some would say he doesn't think with his head he only thinks with his heart and to those kinds of people he would call them cowards. At the end of the day most things will not kill us so why bother worrying so much about things? Carpe diem.